BRISBANE, QUEENSLAND, AUSTRALIA - Steady growth in the Australian and Asian-Pacific markets has prompted GOST® (Global Ocean Security Technologies) Australia to move to a larger facility in North Lakes, Queensland.

The new location for the boat security, monitoring, tracking, surveillance, acoustic deterrent and cloaking systems supplier at Unit 3, No. 6 Oxley Street, North Lakes, Queensland 4509 serves as GOST Australia's Headquarters and houses its corporate administrative, sales & marketing and distribution operations.

"Despite challenging economic conditions, interest in GOST boat security, monitoring, surveillance and tracking products has remained strong. We see significant opportunities for our products in the marketplace and relocating our operations to a larger facility puts us in position to take advantage of these opportunities. It will also give us a great platform to deliver better service to our existing and future customers," said GOST Australia's Distributor Principal Blake Cooper.

"We are planning a much larger presence this year at the Sanctuary Cove International Boat Show. A marine insurance broker will be available on the stand to answer any questions that show goers may have about insurance needs for their vessel. They will have the added advantage of obtaining the latest information on how to protect their vessel which is, for many, one of their largest assets. With marine crime at an all-time high, now is the time to look at specialised marine alarm and tracking equipment," Cooper added.

GOST Australia will be exhibiting at booth 311 in the AIMEX and Superyacht Australia Pavilion at the 2013 Sanctuary Cove International Boat Show, May 23-26.
